R E P O R T
OF THE
SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE,
For the Year ending March 9, 1874.

The Superintending School Committee respectfully present the following Report :

DISTRICT No. 1.

There are two schools maintained in this district, one for older and the other for younger pupils. The average attendance in the former has been a little over twenty, and in the latter over thirty pupils each term. The first term of the higher department was taught by Miss Emily Owen, an admirable teacher, but who left to take a position as assistant in the Academy at Norwich. The second term in the same department was under the care of Miss Amelia P. Mahan, also a good teacher. The teacher for the Winter term was Mr. F. W. Blanchard, but his health not proving sufficient, Mr. Reuben B. Wright was engaged for the remainder of the term, giving perfect satisfaction. The department for the younger children has been under the charge of Miss S. F. Ellis during the entire year. Miss Ellis has had the same success as heretofore, meriting only words of praise.

The amount of money at the disposal of the District for school purposes for the year has been ten hundred and eleven dollars. This has been sufficient to maintain the department of younger pupils for thirty-seven weeks, and the other department for thirty-nine weeks; the lady teachers being paid at the rate of thirty-two dollars per month, and the male teachers fifty dollars per month.

H. E. PARKER,
E. T. QUIMBY.

DISTRICT No. 2.

Summer and fall terms of 10 weeks each, taught by Hattie S. Kinsman. A quiet, orderly school. A good degree of improvement was observable. Of the winter term of four weeks, taught by Emma A. Johnson, I can say nothing as I was not notified that there was a school in session. Scholars, 22 ; average, 16.

DISTRICT No. 3.

Summer term of 9 weeks taught by Eunice E. Johnson, who tried to do well.

Winter term, 8 weeks, by Gertie L. Arvin, who gave general satisfaction. Both teacher and pupils were united in their efforts to make the school both pleasant and profitable. Scholars, 12 ; average, 9.

DISTRICT No. 4.

Amelia P. Mahan spent 8 weeks in summer with this district, creditable to herself and profitable to the scholars.

Winter term, 14 weeks, taught by Pauline S. Miller, one of our best qualified teachers, possessing not merely knowledge itself, but the faculty of imparting it to others. Scholars, 25 ; average, 22.

DISTRICT No. 5.

Summer and Fall terms of 8 weeks each, taught by Maggie P. Whipple, who labored to faithfully discharge her duty to those under her care, and her labors were rewarded by the respect and love of her pupils.

In winter, Fannie G. Huntington had the care of the small scholars for 7 weeks, giving satisfaction to the district, as well as the committee. Millie L. Philbrick staid for the same length of time with the larger scholars ; who, though well qualified, to instruct, was lacking in the great essentials of an efficient teacher, knowledge of human nature and ability to govern. Order is Heaven's first law. Wanting this a school is of little value. Scholars, 42 ; average, 39.

DISTRICT No. 6.

Summer term by Laura G. Smith, who labored for the good of her little charge, and remarks that the school made good progress.

Fall term of 10 weeks by Nellie L. Parker, a teacher of experience. Failing through no one's fault to receive notice of its close, I did not make the second visit. Scholars, 6; average, 5.

DISTRICT No. 7.

Summer term of 8 weeks, taught by Marcy A. Hurlbutt. With a little more energy in the teacher, a greater interest would have been awakened in the scholars.

Fall and Winter terms of 7 and 11 weeks taught by Laura A. Camp, a conscientious, energetic and faithful teacher. Perfection in all things, was the aim of both teacher and pupils. In reading, spelling, arithmetic and grammar, this school is not to be excelled by any of equal age. Scholars, 23, average, 19.

DISTRICT No. 8.

Fall term of 8 weeks, taught by Hattie O. Blood, who, although capable of instructing small scholars, was not equal to the requirements of this school; and after being advised of the fact, showed by the course pursued, that her courage, rather than judgment was to be admired.

Winter term of 10 weeks, taught by Amelia P. Mahan, a good scholar and live teacher. Here we find some of our best as well as most advanced scholars. Scholars, 11; average, 9.

DISTRICT No. 9.

Jennie F. Spencer was employed for 6 weeks in summer, and Lillybelle F. Woodward, did well by her little charge for 10 weeks in autumn, when the advent of cold weather obliged her to close her labors prematurely, as the house is wholly unfit for its purpose. Scholars, 6.

DISTRICT No. 10.

Orrie B. Little made her first attempt at teaching and spent 10 weeks of summer profitably to herself and scholars. Fanny G. Huntington had charge of the school for 10 weeks in autumn, giving evidence of her ability to govern, as well as to instruct. Some fine specimens of map drawing were here seen. Scholars, 6 ; average, 5.

DISTRICT No. 11.

They have only 8 weeks of schooling during the year, but Sarah M. Winship greatly aided the scholars in making the best use of the little time given them for study. Scholars, 13 ; average, 8.

DISTRICT No. 12.

Employed Ida N. Emerson for 8 weeks in Summer, and being so well served, were satisfied they could do no better than to secure her services for the 11 weeks of winter school. A working teacher. Scholars, 14 ; average, 12.

DISTRICT No. 13.

Summer term commenced by Julia A. Flanders, but sickness obliged her to leave at the end of 2 weeks. Fanny G. Hurlbutt was employed for 12 1-2 weeks in winter. Instruction thorough. Considerable attention has been given to reading, and the appearance of the first class showed that she had not labored in vain. Class in Common School Arithmetic made good improvement. Her reputation as a teacher is so well known, further remark is unnecessary. Scholars, 23.

DISTRICT No. 14.

May consider itself among the favored few in securing the services of so efficient a teacher as Annie L. Merrill, who labored faithfully for 8 weeks in summer and 7 in autumn. All classes did well, but one in Colburn's excelled all others seen. Scholars, 16 ; average, 12.

DISTRICT No. 15,

Had 13 weeks of schooling during the year, 10 of which were taught by Hattie O. Blood. The remainder by Delia C. Bradbury, an experienced teacher. Scholars, 2.

DISTRICT No. 16.

Mary B. Tilton having previously taught here was employed for the two terms of 6 and 10 weeks, during the summer and fall. Scholars, 6.

DISTRICT No. 14.

Summer term taught by Ruth C. Clark, who was forced by sickness to leave her school at the expiration of the 7th week. Winter term was conducted for 12 weeks by Hattie N. Bailey. Many of less experience and more energy would have accomplished more. First class in Grammar passed a very good examination. Scholars, 8.

DISTRICT No. 18.

Laura G. Smith had charge of this school for 12 weeks, performing her duties to the acceptance of all interested. Scholars 7; average 5.

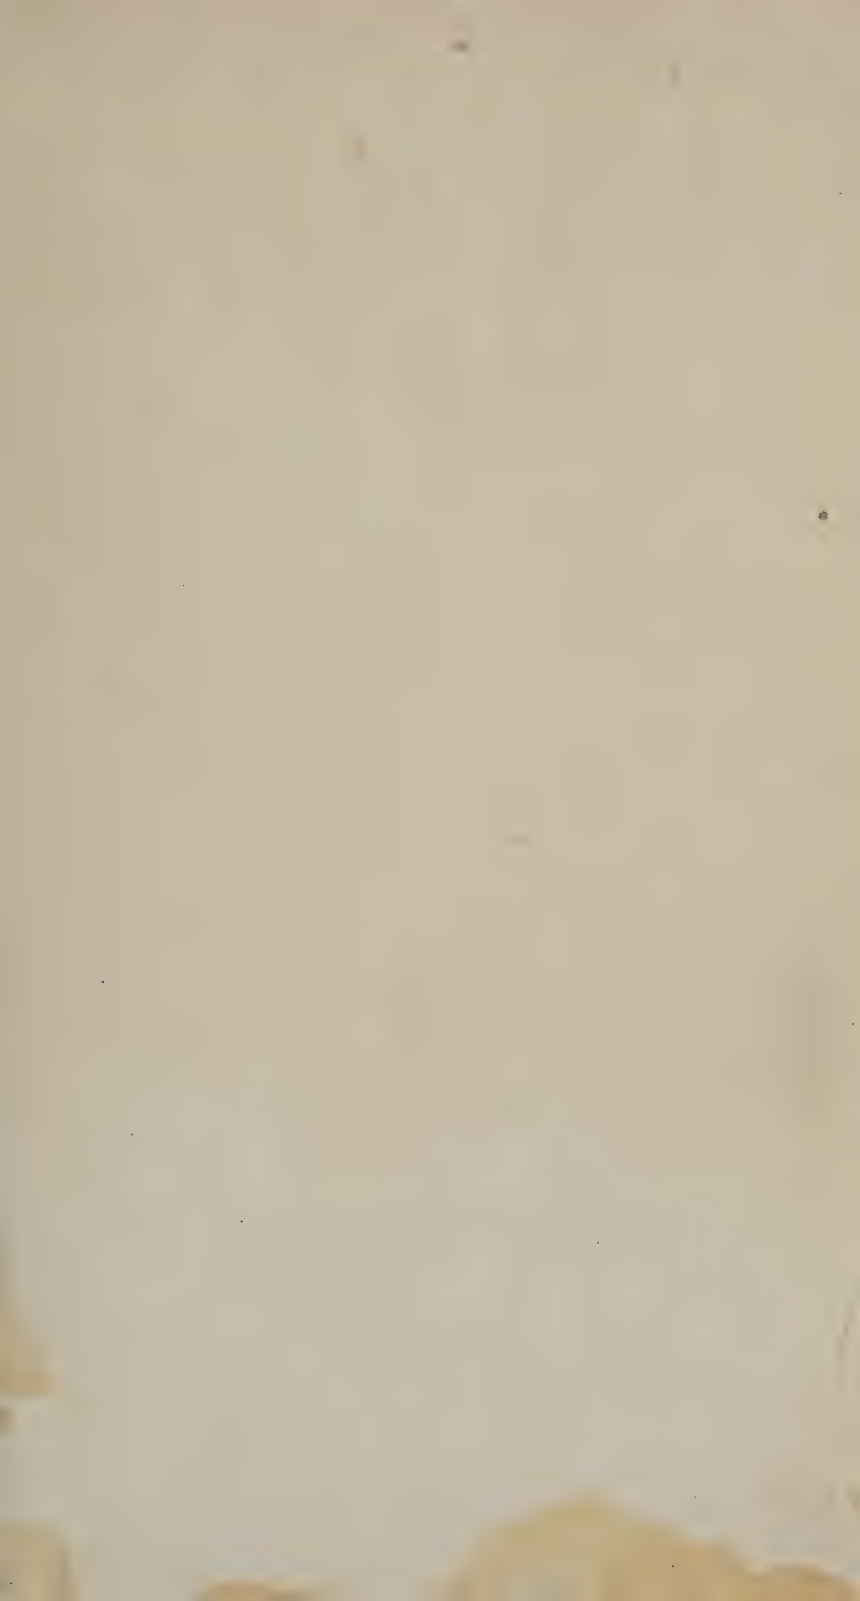

There has been, during the year, 289 weeks of school, giving the advantages of an education to 242 of our children; and does it not stand us in hand to ask ourselves, are we doing all that duty demands for the greatest good of our children? Our whole duty is not performed when we provide them with competent teachers and bid them go to school, but we are to know that they are in their allotted place every day, and show by our occasional presence that we have a personal interest in what interests them; by so doing we shall stimulate both teacher and pupils to increased effort. It is gratifying to be able to report of our schools an improvement from last year. With few exceptions our schools have been under the instruction of teachers who realize the responsibility resting upon them, as those who are aiding to form the character of youth, and they in turn that of our country. Yet, I am sorry to say it, some there are who are willing to receive the faithful teacher's reward, but are not particularly anxious to share his labors, cares and anxieties; who are willing to receive the pay, but not to return a just equivalent for the same. Let all such seek some other calling, and deal with matter rather than immortal mind.

Regarding text books, all are acquainted with the list that has been recommended for years past. I consider a partial change desirable, but will leave it to my successor to say what that change should be.
