

Haunting of Etna Library

If you happened to be in Etna on Saturday night, Oct. 26, you might have noticed lights dotting the path all the way up the hill behind the library. You may have observed witches and jesters with caldrons of candy, and little costumed figures moving from light to light along the path. And surely you would have heard the sound of many voices howling at the moon.

The Haunted Story Walk at the Etna Library was fun for all ages. The hill was bursting with Halloween poems from Robert Frost to Five Little Pumpkins, ghostly decorations (eyeball lights!), and spooky music. At the end, all were welcomed back into the warm and decorated library for hot chocolate.

Making such an event happen takes creativity, organization, and time above and beyond the normal workday. Thank you librarians Jeff Metzler and Sarah Molesworth, for all that you bring to our community. We are very lucky to have you!
